

Going backwards is not the answer. Cutting spending is.

The state's economy is anemic at best. Putting additional toll taxes on the working people and commerce, is anti-productive and will drive away more people and businesses.

The taxpayers of Connecticut are already over taxed and have too much financial burden.

Stop making Connecticut into a socialist hell hole, with 45% of its population on welfare or other public assistance, while the working remainder have to shoulder the burden of these parasites. This is not what the USA was intended to be.

NO TOLLS.

EDWARD MARSHALL
Resident
Hartland Connecticut